

Charles Munger Explains Why You Have No Right to Complain

“People are less happy about the state of affairs than they were when things were way tougher...

It’s weird for somebody my age, because I was in the middle of the Great Depression when the hardship was unbelievable.

I can’t change the fact that a lot of people are very unhappy and feel very abused after everything’s improved by about 600%, because there’s still somebody else who has more.”
