

Engels on Production Evolving

The production of the immediate material means of subsistence and, consequently, the degree of economic development attained by a given people or during a given epoch form the foundation upon which the state institutions, the legal conceptions, the ideas on art, and even on religion, of the people concerned have been evolved.

Friedrich Engels,
Speech at the Grave of Karl Marx

Original article

2023-06-13

"The production of the immediate material means of subsistence and, consequently, the degree of economic development attained by a given people or during a given epoch form the foundation upon which the state institutions, the legal conceptions, the ideas on art, and even on religion, of the people concerned have been evolved."

Friedrich Engels, Speech at the Grave of Karl Marx

Original article