

Helen Keller on Lenin

Men vanish from earth leaving behind them the furrows they have ploughed.

I see the furrow Lenin left sown with the unshatterable seed of a new life for mankind, and cast deep below the rolling tides of storm and lightning, mighty crops for the ages to reap.

Helen Keller,
American socialist,
disability rights advocate
and lecturer

Original article

2022-07-21

Men vanish from earth leaving behind them the furrows they have ploughed. I see the furrow Lenin left sown with the unshatterable seed of a new life for mankind, and cast deep below the rolling tides of storm and lightning, mighty crops for the ages to reap.

more

Helen Keller, "The Spirit of Lenin"

Original article