

Lenin on the Class Struggle

“

VLADIMIR LENIN

Our Immediate Task

The struggle of the workers becomes a class struggle

only when all the foremost representatives of the entire working class of the whole country are conscious of themselves as a single working class and launch a struggle that is directed, not against individual employers, but against the entire class of capitalists and against the government that supports that class.

US.POLITSTURM.COM

Original article

2020-05-07

The struggle of the workers becomes a class struggle only when all the foremost representatives of the entire working class of the whole country are conscious of themselves as a single working class and launch a struggle that is directed, not against individual employers, but against the entire class of capitalists and against the government that supports that class.

V.I. Lenin, "Our Immediate Task"

Original article