Lenin on the Growing Awareness of the Cause of War

The war is terrible;

it has hit the vast mass of the people hardest of all;

it is these people who are becoming aware, albeit still very vaguely, that the war is criminal, that it is being carried on through the rivalry and scramble of the capitalists, for the division of their spoils. The world situation is growing more and more involved.

Vladimir Lenin,
Lessons of the Crisis

US.POLITSTURM.COM

Original article

2026-11-28

The war is terrible;

it has hit the vast mass of the people hardest of all;

it is these people who are becoming aware, albeit still very vaguely, that the war is criminal, that it is being carried on through the rivalry and scramble of the capitalists, for the division of their spoils. The world situation is growing more and more involved.

Vladimir Lenin, Lessons of the Crisis

Original article