

Stalin on Social Ideas and Progress of Society

New social ideas and theories arise only after the development of the material life of society has set new tasks before society.

But once they have arisen they become a most potent force which facilitates the carrying out of the new tasks set by the development of the material life of society, a force which facilitates the progress of society.

Joseph Stalin,
Dialectical and
Historical Materialism

Original article

2023-08-22

"New social ideas and theories arise only after the development of the material life of society has set new tasks before society. But once they have arisen they become a most potent force which facilitates the carrying out of the new tasks set by the development of the material life of society, a force which facilitates the progress of society."

Joseph Stalin, Dialectical and Historical Materialism

Original article